

Thinking Politically

- 2 Caste and Capitalism in India
Priti Cox sees Hinduism and capitalism on one side vs. natural ecosystems and the country's poor on the other.
- 7 Police Were Created to Control Poor and Working Class People
Sam Mitrani believes that we shouldn't expect the police to be something they're not.
- 9 What if Michael Brown Had Been Armed?
Arlene Eisen understands these killings as a result of the perpetual war on Black people.
- 11 Building a New World
R. Burke reviews A World to Build by Marta Harnecker, who emphasizes the importance of recovering original socialist thinking.
- 13 Learning from Latin America's Social Movements
This excerpt from Clifton Ross and Marcy Rein's Until the Rulers Obey observes left governments that are building welfare states rather than developing socialism.

Thinking Economically

- 19 Are Economic Growth and Social Justice Incompatible?
Jason Hickel and Alnoor Ladha point out that the current economic order is producing climate change and inequality.
- 21 An Interview with Staughton Lynd
Andy Piascik records the wisdom that organizing energy should go into building strong nuclei of self-activity on the workplace floor.

Less of What We Don't Need

- ifc Why Green Capitalism Will Fail
Pete Dolack reflects upon the The IPCC implication that there need be no fundamental change to the world's economic structures.
- 27 Wishful Thinking about Natural Gas
Naomi Oreskes worries that short-term cuts in greenhouse gas emissions could lure us into the trap of long-term failure.
- 32 What Will It Take To Go Beyond "Extractivism?"
Federico Fuentes asserts that Bolivia's proposal to extract and industrialize lithium could have an important effect on decreasing dependency on petrol.
- 35 Beyond Lithium (and Other Poisons)
Don Fitz explains that the horrendous plagues visited first upon the poor are where climate change denial meets extractivism denial.

Biodevastation

- 41 On Guar Beans and Fracking Giants
According to Joyce Nelson, frac-sand would fall to the bottom of the well without guar gum.
- 43 What Cuba Can Teach the World about Disease Control
Conner Gorry reports that Cuba's Brigade is the largest medical team on the ground battling Ebola.
- 44 A Review of *This Changes Everything
Kim Scipes quotes Naomi Klein saying "What the climate needs to avoid collapse is a contraction in humanity's use of resources."
- 46 Ebola Crisis
Rupen Savoulian notes that the pharmaceutical companies decided that, lacking a market, an Ebola vaccine was not worthwhile.