

Work Less, Live More

- 14 Bolivia: Struggle for the Right to Collectively Own Land
*María Belén Choque explains that the monthly asamblea has the final word in decision-making.*
- 16 A Daylight Robbery in Ethiopia
Obang Metho documents that “land deals” are being negotiated in secret with Indian investors.
- 19 Honduras OKs Plan for Private Cities
Kari Lydersen notes that private foreign interests could create and enforce their own laws.
- 21 A Big Victory for Labor in Mexico
Jane Slaughter observes that one gain of taking over a tire plant was doing away with foremen.
- 26 Ration Consumption or Ration Production?
Don Fitz says that rationing could include elimination of entire product lines.
- 30 Why Small-scale Alternatives Won’t Change the World
Michael Ware reviews Greg Sharzer’s No Local.
- 32 New Cuba
Keith Harrington looks at the potential for worker-owned-and-managed firms.
- 33 Winner Takes All
Ellen Brown warns that customers will be put into bankruptcy to save the banks.

Less of What We Don’t Need

- 44 The Faux Zero Waste Movement Is Spreading
Paul Palmer points out that proposals to eliminate garbage are rejected.

Biodevastation

- ifc March Against Monsanto
Paul Cienfuegos charges that regulatory agencies were designed by the corporate leaders who they supposedly regulate.
- 2 The Death of Peasant Farming in Argentina
Hugh Davies accuses the Argentine government of pursuing bigger and longer lasting deals with Monsanto.
- 4 We Don’t Need Genetically Engineered Bananas
Vandana Shiva reminds us that there is no reason to introduce a hazardous technology into a low-iron food.
- 6 The New “Golden Age of Oil” that Wasn’t
Michael T. Klare forecasts that accidents and setbacks must become more frequent than in conventional drilling.
- 9 Agriculture, Conservation and Food Sovereignty
Ian Angus reviews Ivette Perfecto’s Nature’s Matrix.

Thinking Politically

- 36 The Green Party’s “Shadow Cabinet”
William Kaufman has a glimpse of student government leaders getting to cavort in their bureaucratic sandbox.
- 37 A Deep Green Alternative
The Greens/Green Party USA realizes how to provide basic necessities at the same time as we cut back on burning fossil fuel.
- 40 Bradley Manning and the Appalling Silence of Gay, Inc.
Andy Thayer acknowledges someone who, unlike air-headed celebrities, has actually done something to support social justice.
- 42 Dangerous Visions
Richard Burke reviews Slavoj Žižek’s The Year of Dreaming Dangerously.